

Diplomatic Relations May Be Broken Over Attack on the Sussex

If Government Establishes That Teuton Submarine Made Attack, Relations Will Be Severed

WILSON "IS AWAITING FACTS OF ATTACK"

Washington, March 27. (By United Press)—Diplomatic relations with Germany probably will be broken off if the United States government finds that a German submarine was responsible for the attack on the channel steamer Sussex, according to a high administration official today. President Wilson "is awaiting the facts" it was stated at the white house. A piece of bronze metal similar to that used for German torpedoes has been found in the Sussex wreckage, a report made by a French officer to the American consul at Boulogne and forwarded to the state department declares.

The state department holds the view that if it is established that a submarine is responsible there will be no need to inquire into its nationality as Austrian and Turkish undersea boats have not been operating in the channel.

London, March 27.—At least one American it now appears certain is lost in the sinking of the channel liner Sussex by a submarine or mine Friday afternoon. After careful checking over the lists of survivors the American embassy today that Miss Calliope Anastasia Fennell, of New York, is missing.

Professor M. Baldwin, his wife and daughter, Elizabeth, were struck from the list of missing on receipt of a cable from Paris that they were safe. The Baldwins are said to be at a private hospital near Boulogne where the daughter lies seriously injured. Twelve bodies of passengers and members of the crew have been recovered. About seventy others are missing.

London, March 27.—All Americans aboard the Sussex have been saved and accounted for the statement of the American Embassy declared today. Several Americans were injured.

London, March 27. (By United Press)—Several Americans were seriously injured but no American lives were lost in the destruction of the channel steamer Sussex, the American embassy announced this afternoon. Miss Calliope Fennell of New York, who was reported missing has been located in Paris. The Embassy has confirmed press reports that the Baldwin family of Philadelphia are at a hotel near Boulogne.

Berlin, March 27.—English reports that a German submarine sank the channel packet Sussex were generally disbelieved here today although no official denial has yet been issued. The German submarines that may have been operating off the French coast probably will not return to their bases for several days. In the meantime the officials expressed the hope that neutrals who may have been aboard the Sussex will not form a decided opinion from versions of the affair given through some English news sources.

Dr. Heckisier, of Hamburg, foreign relations expert of the Reichstag, warned Americans against considering English reports as true and scouted the idea expressed by the English press that there may be a break between the United States and Germany.

"Neither President Wilson nor the American people nor the Kaiser nor the German people want war between the two countries," he said. Where there is no desire for a conflict it must be avoided. It is a fact that most of the critical situation between the two countries have been occasioned by the vitriolic practice of English agencies in spreading poison both in America and Germany.

STATE WILL PLANT QUARTER MILLION TREES IN COUNTY

Trees Will Be Planted On Penfield and Clearfield Forests This Spring

Plantations Will Be Made With Trees Four or Five Feet Apart Each Way—Plantations Will Cover from 125 to 150 Acres.

Planting plans approved by Department of Forestry for the State Forests in Clearfield county (contemplates using over a quarter of a million trees this spring. Every tree planted on the State Forests will be supplied by the Department's own nurseries. Most of the trees for Clearfield county will be taken from the nurseries at Clearfield and Penfield.

About 65,000 white pine, 40,000 Scotch pine, 24,000 pitch pine, 40,000 Norway spruce and 5,000 European larch will be planted on the Penfield Forest, in Huston township. 50,000 white pine, 25,000 Scotch pine, and 25,000 pitch pine will be planted on the Clearfield forest, in Pine township. The total number of trees allotted to Clearfield county forests is 274,000. All will be planted on areas which are now producing nothing of value. No planting will be done on the Karthaus forest this year.

Most of the plantations will be made with the trees set four or five feet apart each way. This means that from 2,000 to 2,500 trees will be required per acre, and that Clearfield county's plantations will cover from 125 to 150 acres. This planting is necessary to form a dense shade and ground cover quickly. It also makes the trees grow more rapidly in height, and provides for early returns from thinning the stand.

The allotments of trees for the other counties in which State forests are located are as follows: Cameron, 334,300; Centre, 469,500; Elk, 82,000; Franklin, 100,000; Huntingdon, 73,000; Lycoming, 113,000; Potter, 1,923,900; Somerset, 310,000; Tioga, 477,000; Union, 255,000.

Including Clearfield county's allotment, this makes a total of 5,169,800 trees to be used for reforestation or the state forests this year. In addition to this, from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 trees will be distributed to private individuals who will use them for reforestation.

BOWMAN—BORNHOFF

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Bowman, of East End when Miss Gladys Bornhoff was united in marriage to Rowland Bowman by Rev. B. J. Hummel, pastor of the United Brethren church.

The ceremony was witnessed by only a few relatives of the young couple. Miss Annie Bowman, sister of the groom, acted as maid of honor and Forest Bornhoff, brother of the bride as best man. Kyle Bowman acted as ring bearer.

Following the ceremony a delicious dinner was served at the home of the groom after which the couple left for a short honeymoon.

JAS. M. QUALLEY IMPROVING AFTER SERIOUS OPERATION

Former Clearfield Resident Recovering At Clifton Springs Sanatorium.

News from Clifton Springs is to effect that James Qualley who was operated on there last Wednesday, is slowly recovering, and that there is no fear of a relapse. His many friends here were shocked Sunday evening to hear that Mr. Qualley had not survived the operation. His brother-in-law, W. Clark Miller, is at a loss to account for the erroneous report of Mr. Qualley's death.

ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL TO HERMAN LONG OF EAST END

Youth Falls From Top of Moving Train and Loses Both Legs—Dies Soon After

Accident Occurred in N. Y. C. Yards Where He Was Employed—Was Clinging Over Train to Avoid Waiting.

While returning to his home Saturday evening about 6:30 o'clock Herman B. Long, aged 17 years, of Daisy street, fell from the top of a car of a moving train and had both legs cut off and received other injuries which proved fatal. He died at two o'clock Sunday morning in the Clearfield hospital after seven hours of suffering.

Leaving his work at the Round house in the N. Y. C. yards, Long started for his home and in order to reach the street had to climb over a moving train or wait until it had passed. He chose the former way and succeeded in climbing onto the top of a car. In some unknown manner he fell down between two cars and was unable to catch himself with the result that the train cut off both legs.

It is thought that he was about to climb down the ladder at the end of the car when his foot slipped throwing him down under the wheels of the car. Several workmen in the yards saw the accident and immediately summoned a doctor who ordered him taken to the Clearfield hospital where he died at two o'clock Sunday morning.

The deceased is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. David Long and one brother, Everett, and two sisters. A funeral will be held at two o'clock Sunday morning.

PROGRESS REPORTS WILLARD-MORANGO TO CLEARFIELDERS

Bulletin Service Covers Every Round of Championship Event at Madison Square Garden

Direct Connection With United Press Through Western Union Supplies Speedy Returns.

Willard's decisive victory over Frank Moran Saturday night, which establishes the big cowboy as the undisputed champion of the world, was reported in Clearfield in a running account of the Madison Garden attraction by The Progress. Direct connections through the Western Union with United Press headquarters in Pittsburgh enabled this paper to serve its patrons with the incidents of the big battle within a minute of their happening.

The Elk's club, The Fraternity Eagles, Avon theatre, Henley's Billiard room, Davis' Billiard room and the Bingham hotel subscribed for a bulletin service issued by The Progress, and in each of these places large crowds gathered to receive the returns. Quick service featured the bulletins, eleven of which were issued during the ten round fight.

The fight fans were well pleased with the service.

3,000 ADDITIONAL TROOPS PREPARING TO CROSS BORDER

Authorities Declare There is No Reason to Believe Villa is Surrounded

Sniping by Mexicans Being Carried On on the Road Between Casas Grandes and Columbus.

Columbus, New Mexico, March 27. (By United Press)—Sniping by Mexicans is being carried on on the road between Casas Grandes and this place according to stories told by returning army supply train wagon drivers here today. They said that several of the snipers were killed by the retaliatory fire of the American troops.

Over 3,000 additional United States troops now at the border were preparing to enter Mexico today. Military authorities at the base here reiterated the belief that the Villistas would not be exterminated without a long hard campaign. They said there was no reason to believe that Villa was surrounded by American or a Carranzista troops at present.

Huge quantities of supplies of all kinds have arrived in the last 24 hours. Hundreds of cavalry horses are arriving here to replace the mounts already worn out in only twelve days' campaigning. Arthur Dargue left at sunrise in his aeroplane for Casas Grandes.

ALL POPLAR TREES WILL BE REMOVED THIS SPRING

In Last Five Years 1,500 Poplars Have Been Removed By the Commission.

The shade tree commission of Clearfield in its yearly report states that in the past five years over 1,500 North Carolina Poplars have been removed in the borough and that 1,600 Norway Maples have been planted in their places.

There are still a few poplars in the borough which the commission insists must be removed this spring. They ask the property owners to remove these trees and plant Norway Maples in their stead, thus saving unnecessary cost and expense to the owners.

It is the intention of the commission during the coming spring to complete the work of removing the poplars and of planting new trees and of filing liens for the maples where owners have failed to comply with the notices already served upon them. The commission will also appreciate notice of any injury done to any shade tree or the wire supports in order that the injury may be properly repaired. It will welcome any suggestion which the citizens of the borough make which will tend to make its work more efficient and which will improve the appearance of the streets of the borough.

The commission, Messrs. W. H. Patterson, Leslie Stewart and Dr. S. D. Bailey wishes to thank the property owners of Clearfield for their hearty co-operation and support in carrying on the work of the commission.

FIRE WARDENS OF CLEARFIELD ARE ASSEMBLED TODAY

Forest Fire Fighters Hear Address by Chief of Foren and Discuss Local Problems

Forty-one Members of Force Attend Meeting Which is Filled With Interesting Moments.

The forty-one fire wardens of Clearfield county are in camp here today at the call of Chief Fire Warden George W. Wirt, of the department of forestry, who is presiding at the session. This afternoon in the arbitration room of the court house.

This meeting is called in accordance with the provisions of the new forest protection code, passed by the last legislature. Its purposes are to make the wardens better known to each other, that they may be better able to co-operate and for the discussion of questions and topics in connection with fire prevention and control.

Immediately after the convention came to order at one o'clock Andrew McQuown, fire warden of Bell Township, with headquarters at Mahaffey, was elected chairman of the convention, and W. F. Dague, of Clearfield, secretary.

Chief Fire Warden Wirt addressed the convention, and gave the assembled fire fighters much valuable information in connection with their work. He declared that of the 5,000,000 acres of forest annually burned over in Pennsylvania, fully 50 per cent. was unnecessary and preventable waste. He urged the men to greater endeavor in the prevention of fires.

During the afternoon various members of the force discussed problems peculiar to the district, and appealed to the Chief to settle for them many questions relative to their work which have vexed them.

The entire body had dinner today at the Leonard house. The convention closes late this afternoon.

SUSQUEHANNA RIVER AND CLEARFIELD CREEK FLOODED

Eight Feet Flood Registered in River and Water Still Rising.

As a result of warm spring and several rains, an eight foot flood is registered in the Susquehanna river and the water still rising. The Clearfield creek is also several feet higher than usual and is flooding its banks in places. If the warm weather and rain continues it is thought that the river will overflow its banks and Clearfield will be visited by one of the largest floods in several years. Old residents about the town do not consider the flood alarming and are inclined to the belief that no damage will result from the high water.

MEETING OF WOMAN'S CLUB

There will be a meeting of the Woman's club on Tuesday afternoon, March 28 at 3 o'clock at the club house. This will be children day and the program will be devoted to a paper on that subject.

Today's great thought: Wonder if a Zeppelin raid on an American ammunition plant would break a single strand of the tie that binds us to Germany?

A PRETTY PROBLEM.

Which is the mother of the chick, the hen that lays the egg or the hen that hatches it? For the first 1,000 correct answers we will give 1,000 sticks of peanut brittle.

THE SUSSEX AFFAIR.

It is gratifying to see in today's press dispatches that this country will break off diplomatic relations with Germany if it is established that a submarine sank the Sussex. Patience, who has established a new record for endurance and somewhat questionable virtue, must finally become exhausted.

RECALIBRATION.

In going over the legislative field, it is found that we were a trifle hasty in concluding that some of the candidates are of the .22 calibre variety. More careful study offers convincing proof that beside some of them .22 calibre looms up like a 42 centimeter gun—a "Big Bertha." Therefore, we reserve the right to recalibrate these gentlemen at a future time.

COURTING WRATH.

Do you ever return to a thing which oppresses you? Has any subject or object influence over you which seductively brings you back to it despite your aversion for it? It is said that a murderer always returns to the scene of his crime, lured by morbidity to receive a recurrence of the mental and physical shock which followed his act. Some men who are drunkards have a profound distaste for alcohol. Women who go into hysterics over highly emotional plays are most eager to see such expositions of the art. Children are forever touching a wet finger tip to a hot stove, and no man, woman or child ever took the painter's word for it that the paint was fresh.

Some such indefinable desire for revulsion possesses us each week when that superlatively offensive organ of treason, "The Fatherland," comes to the desk. Filled from cover with un-American, pro-German contributions to the German campaign of affirmation, its weekly visit, unbidden, is the signal for indulgence in unexpressed wrath against the elasticity of democracy which permits so rotten a sore to continue as an offense against every fibre of Americanism. So, religiously, it is read. And so, periodically, the humble American writer of these lines yearns with greater fervor for the defeat of the cause which gave birth to "The Fatherland" and its contemptible assumption that this nation is a nation of idiots.

AUSTRIANS DROP SHELLS ON TENTS OF THE WOUNDED

Happenings At Hospital At Salonika Described by a Wounded Soldier

Many American Nurses and Surgeons Working in Hospitals at Salonika—Entrance of Civilian Creates Furor.

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPPERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Salonica, Greece, Feb. 21. — (By Mail)—Seventy-five girls from Canada, standing among their hospital tents on a little hill seven miles out from Salonika, looking into the sky. Above them a circling Austrian aeroplane.

The whistle of falling Austrian aeroplane shells; three terrific explosions on the earth nearby; a heavy thud of one shell that didn't explode and that would have killed a tentful of wounded men if it had—this was my first glimpse of No. 4 Canadian hospital. The Austrian killer sailed away.

In the name of God and humanity why did he try to kill nurses and surgeons and sick and dying men? You feel these things more when you see them yourself than when you read about them. In one of those tents, at the time, not a hundred feet from where an Austrian shell fell, a great surgeon from Canada whose name is known and honored among the surgeons of Germany and Austria was toiling with his knife on theitals of a young officer, using all the skill and science that twenty centuries of study have afforded the art of surgery; and one of these Austrian shells might have wiped out that scene, actors and all—the surgeon, the men who were holding the merciful ether cone, the nurses who were standing nearby with the surgeon's tools and the senseless man, himself. Or might it not, with the strange trickery of shells have killed all except the man on the table and left him to come to his senses, with no kindly ether pouring into his lungs and with the vital operation only half done? The possibilities are too terrible to consider. Not a shell hit the great group of hospital tents. But the point is that the Austrian tried to hit them.

You feel strongly, as I have said, about an incident of this sort, especially if you are marked to go on the operating table yourself the next day. And, also if you are scheduled to spend a couple of weeks in one of the tents lying helpless until the surgeon's cuttings have begun to heal.

By this time the hospital has become normal; the excitement of the patients has abated under the assurances of the nurses that the aeroplane has gone. You are escorted to a tent by an orderly who, you discover later, first learned his business in Bellevue hospital in New York. A sweet-faced nurse meets you at the door of the tent; she used to be in a hospital in Brooklyn.

"Take any bed you please of these five," she says. "And you must undress and go to bed right away, too." The bed is a cot; the covers are heavy warm blankets.

Everywhere about you are men in uniform, or in bed. They are all British officers. Your entrance, as a civilian, creates something of a furor, for a man in civilian's clothes in these days in Greece, is an oddity worth attention.

A soldier in uniform brings you your tea at five that evening; another soldier brings you a cup of hot malted milk at eight in the evening and at nine a soldier in uniform—one of Canada's most noted surgeons, who has given up his work in the city of Toronto to "do his bit" for the British empire—comes to your outside, looks you over and says, "You mustn't expect any breakfast in the morning, young man, because we'll take you to the operating room at 10 o'clock."

In the morning there are more men in uniform, buying themselves about your cot. One takes off your blankets; two bring in a stretcher; another asks you to get up and lie on it. "Are you from New York?" asks another, who walks beside you as you're carried out of your tent toward the operating tent. You are. So is he. He used to be in the Roosevelt hospital. "Do you know Karl Kitchin, the New York reporter?" he asks. You do. "Funny fellow," says the soldier, walking along beside you, with his chin on a level with the stretcher. "Came to Roosevelt hospital while I was there and wouldn't get any better or any worse; fever kept up one night; he beated me to help him speak away and I did, in a taxi cab. He used to give me the tickets cab fare and I hated to see him leave the place."

By this time you're in the operating tent. There are surgeons or right there. The surgeon is dressed like a soldier but he is covered in uniform a white apron as you enter. You get onto the table. A soldier stands at each side of you; each holds one of your hands.

"Cook your little nose and let me hang onto it," says the soldier who used to be at the Roosevelt. "I can tell when you're gone that way." A uniform is only partly hidden by the white apron of the soldier who comes toward you with the ether cone. He stands at your head.

"This will taste nasty for just a minute," he says, reassuringly. Then he claps it down over your face. Two or three big steam boxes, in which instruments are sterilized are hissing. The soldier from Bellevue squeezes your hand reassuringly.

"All right," he says. "Many times I've done this."

"Not when aeroplane bombs might drop on you," you try to say, but you're only mumbling; he can't hear you; you'd like to answer him just to show him you're not nervous; but what's the use of trying to make him understand?

"Are you cold? Wouldn't you like a hot water bag at your feet?" You open your eyes. The cone has come; so have the soldiers. You're back in your brown tent. You see double, or triple. The sweet-faced nurse who is talking to you has four faces; now there are only three. You faint and she has only two; you feel encouraged. Just to see if you can talk you say you will have a hot water bottle.

Somewhere in the world there is a terrible pain; you don't associate this pain with yourself. Somewhere some poor devil is suffering with a terrible hurt. Gradually the pain begins to be connected with yourself; slowly it comes to you that the poor devil is yourself. Well, it's lucky for the rest of them it's none of them. Still, YOUR appendix will never ache again.

"Too breezy for German aeroplane this afternoon," you hear an officer on a nearby cot remark.

And that remark brings you clear back to the world; back to the loudly flapping tent; back to the war; back to the killing and the dying.

"COCK ROBBIN" MAY COME TO LIFE IN CONGRESS TUESDAY

Susan Anthony Suffrage Amendment May Be Referred To Whole Committee

Sub-Committee Decides Not to Refer Resolution to Committee But Suffragists Secure Promise of Congressmen to Again Bring it up.

Washington, March 25. (By United Press)—So far as Mother Goose relates, the original Cock Robin staged no come-back. Once dead, he remained devoutly in that condition. Moreover, his women friends made no effort to bring him back; nor did they pester the official graveyard custodians.

But the world has moved since Mother Goose lived, and the Cock Robin under present discussion though officially dead, is raising a considerable post-mortem hubbub and may be brought at life with a bang in congress next Tuesday.

The present Cock Robin is the once-called Susan B. Anthony suffrage amendment, rechristened Cock Robin by Representative Carlin of Virginia. The graveyard attendants, tried and true if nervous are the members of the house judiciary committee; and the pestiferous would-be revivers are the battling suffragists.

The trouble all started when Carlin walked out of a sub-committee, which was to have reported the resolution to the whole committee and announced "Well, we've killed Cock Robin."

He meant the sub-committee had determined not to report the measure to the full committee, where one of those dog-gone-dog-and-no-votes would have to be taken.

However, here enter the lady revivers, the suffs. They found that the resolution had been referred to the sub-committee while four of their friends in the committee were away, and they began a campaign for votes to bring that measure back before the whole committee and a record roll-call.

They found a deplorable amount of ill-health, previous engagements, soldier, walking along beside you, with his chin on a level with the stretcher. "Came to Roosevelt hospital while I was there and wouldn't get any better or any worse; fever kept up one night; he beated me to help him speak away and I did, in a taxi cab. He used to give me the tickets cab fare and I hated to see him leave the place."

By this time you're in the operating tent. There are surgeons or right there. The surgeon is dressed like

"Your family in good health?"
"Yes, yes indeed."
"You don't expect to be called out of the city?"

"No."
"Well, I'm so glad to know this. There can't be a single reason then, can there, why you should not be able to vote tomorrow to bring Cock Robin before the whole committee?" (Business of drawing out a note-book and pencil).

"No, and I ain't scared to stay and vote, neither," answer some.

"Whew" say others, after their secretaries have rescued them from painfully obvious stalling, and the Lady Friend has left.

So far, H. H. Moss, of Virginia, has been called from a sick bed to vote; Life for Dale of New York has been just one official business; out-of-town after another and Graham of New York has developed a memory.

At eventide he promised the ladies he was for at least one more lease of life for Cock Robin; but when morning dawned he remembered an agreement, made previously with other members, not to force fellow congressmen to vote either on prohibition or suffrage this season. Sorry, but in a matter of honor what can a man do?

Williams, of Illinois remembered for a while that it would be decidedly embarrassing for certain other members if they had to vote yes or no. The suffragists finally brought him around.

So there lies Cock Robin; perhaps dead; perhaps simply in suspended animation and with the pulmotor squall manning the oxygen pumps; the graveyard attendants murmuring something about ghoulies; and the resourcefulness of congressional minds being taxed to the limit. Next Tuesday will tell Cock Robin's tale.

FINNS MAY JOIN GERMANY IN WAR AGAINST RUSSIA

Forecasting Serious Internal Situation, Military Eligibles Forbidden to Leave

Finland Solid Unit Against Participation in War But May Make Attempt to Gain Independence.

(By United Press) Copenhagen, March 8. —(By Mail) —Possibly forecasting a serious internal situation in Finland, all military eligible have been forbidden to leave the country, it became known here today.

Finns between the ages of 19 and 41 must remain in Finland pending the czar's decision to draft them into the Russian army. There are, approximately 500,000 men in Finland available for military service. Less than 4,000 Finns have joined the Russian army to date. All ports of exit are now closely watched with the utmost vigilance by the Russian authorities.

"Finland has no desire to fight for or against Russia," said a wealthy Finnish ship-owner who arrived here today after escaping from his own country by signing up as master of one of his own ships.

"Finland, figuratively speaking, is between the Devil and Deep Blue Sea." The people are a solid unit with the national Diet against military participation in the war. By the people I mean everybody, men and women. Women have the vote, too, in Finland.

"There is not one of either sex who would not fight a German invasion of Finland. But the country wants to do it with its own army and its own officers. The Finnish standing army of 300,000 men was abolished by Russia in 1905. Naturally, then, there is no great good feeling toward Russia. Russia has instituted other reforms which have not been popular. But, with all this, there is no sentiment favoring the Germans. The Finns are for Finland first and all the time."

"If the Germans invade Finland, the Russians will devastate Finland just as Poland was razed."

"If the Russians conscript Finnish men into the Russian army there will be serious consequences. I am not willing to say that there will be a revolution but the world will hear from Finland if it happens."

"Practically every factory and almost every blacksmith's forge in Finland is engaged in making munitions for the Russians," the ship-owner added. "The people are willing to do this because they are paid for it but they are not willing to shed blood unless it is in defense of their own country."

Finland is suffering a great shortage of wheat, and food is somewhat higher, but the country has not suffered in comparison with some countries. Russia refuses to pass more than the normal Russian importations of wheat into Finland because it is feared the grain would be sold to the Germans. Before the war Finland imported her wheat from three sources — Russia, Germany and America. With German and American supplies now non-existent, only one third of the normal amount is available.

27 MILLION INVESTED IN SHIP BUILDING BOOM

Sixty Six Ships Contracted for by Great Lake Companies

Cleveland, March 27. —(By United Press)—Cleveland lake ports are experiencing the greatest ship building boom in years. Ship yards and dry-docks are working day and night. Employees, mostly skilled, are scarce, and wages are 10 to 15 per cent. higher than in past years.

"About 27,000,000 is invested in contracts in Great Lakes ship yards for vessels to be delivered within the next two years," said H. C. Estep, editor of a marine trade paper here.

"Sixty six ships have been contracted for by Great Lake companies. Four companies will deliver the bulk of these ships: The American Shipbuilding Co.; Great Lakes Engineering Co.; Toledo Shipbuilding Co.; and the Manitowac Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Co.

"A large part of the ships contracted for will be used on salt water. These must not be more than 261 feet over all, so they can pass through the Welland canal.

"Eight great 600 foot bulk cargo boats have been ordered for 1916 delivery and will be used in the iron ore trade." A. G. Smith, general manager of the American Shipbuilding Co., states that all but nine of the 26 ships his firm has promised to deliver within the next two years are destined for salt water trade.

The Toledo Shipbuilding Co., is working on five schooners to be used in the Atlantic coast trade.

NEW YORK FUR SALE OPENS.

New York, March 27. —The second public sale of the year under the auspices of the New York Fur Auction Sales corporation began today and will continue throughout the week. The first sale was held last January and proved a revelation to the trade, not only in the number of buyers present, but in the keen competition. The auctioneers predict that the January prices will at least be maintained at the present sale. Buyers from many cities throughout the country were present at the opening.

APPAM CASE HEARINGS THIS WEEK.

Richmond, Va., March 27. —The libel proceedings instituted by the British owners of the steamship Appam, to recover possession of the vessel are expected to be heard in the Federal court here this week. Counsel for Lieutenant Berg, commander of the German prize crew which brought the Appam into Hampton Roads, have agreed to present a defense at the trial, although they contend that the United States courts have no jurisdiction over the ship.

HUSBAND SUES DETECTIVE HE HIRED TO SHADOW WIFE

Minneapolis, Minn., March 27. —(By United Press)—Arthur Lillgren, who claims he lost a perfectly good wife because he hired a detective to shadow her, on the detective's alleged statement that she needed shadowing, is in court today. He alleges the sleuth gave him false information about his spouse, and that when he accused the wife of the things the sleuth told him about, she left him. Arthur's suit for $25,000 damages against the detective agency is set for trial today.

MILLIONAIRE ON TRIAL FOR MANN ACT VIOLATION

Chicago, March 27. —(By United Press)—After many delays and postponements, William Rufus Edwards, millionaire St. Paul lumberman, went to trial here today, charged with having violated the Mann act.

Ada M. Cox, a stenographer who once sued Edwards for breach of promise, is the principal witness against him. Edwards had secured several continuances from the federal court; once because of his wife was approaching motherhood, next because of his baby's illness, and finally, early this month, because he himself was suffering from nervous prostration.

Edwards' counsel planned to attack Miss Cox's character, it was said and has arranged for transportation for 25 witnesses from many places to Chicago.

Miss Cox was a stenographer employed in a Chicago coal office. She declared she was transported to St. Paul by Edwards, and that Edwards promised to marry her. She won a $17,000 verdict in her breach of promise case.

Diplomatic Relations May Be Broken Over Attack on the Sussex

If Government Establishes That Teuton Submarine Made Attack, Relations Will Be Severed

WILSON "IS AWAITING FACTS OF ATTACK"

Washington, March 27. (By United Press)—Diplomatic relations with Germany probably will be broken off if the United States government finds that a German submarine was responsible for the attack on the channel steamer Sussex, according to a high administration official today. President Wilson "is awaiting the facts" it was stated at the white house. A piece of bronze metal similar to that used for German torpedoes has been found in the Sussex wreckage, a report made by a French officer to the American consul at Boulogne and forwarded to the state department declares.

The state department holds the view that if it is established that a submarine is responsible there will be no need to inquire into its nationality as Austrian and Turkish undersea boats have not been operating in the channel.

London, March 27.—At least one American it now appears certain is lost in the sinking of the channel liner Sussex by a submarine or mine Friday afternoon. After careful checking over the lists of survivors the American embassy today that Miss Calliope Anastasia Fennell, of New York, is missing.

Professor M. Baldwin, his wife and daughter, Elizabeth, were struck from the list of missing on receipt of a cable from Paris that they were safe. The Baldwins are said to be at a private hospital near Boulogne where the daughter lies seriously injured. Twelve bodies of passengers and members of the crew have been recovered. About seventy others are missing.

London, March 27.—All Americans aboard the Sussex have been saved and accounted for the statement of the American Embassy declared today. Several Americans were injured.

London, March 27. (By United Press)—Several Americans were seriously injured but no American lives were lost in the destruction of the channel steamer Sussex, the American embassy announced this afternoon. Miss Calliope Fennell of New York, who was reported missing has been located in Paris. The Embassy has confirmed press reports that the Baldwin family of Philadelphia are at a hotel near Boulogne.

Berlin, March 27.—English reports that a German submarine sank the channel packet Sussex were generally disbelieved here today although no official denial has yet been issued. The German submarines that may have been operating off the French coast probably will not return to their bases for several days. In the meantime the officials expressed the hope that neutrals who may have been aboard the Sussex will not form a decided opinion from versions of the affair given through some English news sources.

Dr. Heckisier, of Hamburg, foreign relations expert of the Reichstag, warned Americans against considering English reports as true and scouted the idea expressed by the English press that there may be a break between the United States and Germany.

"Neither President Wilson nor the American people nor the Kaiser nor the German people want war between the two countries," he said. "Where there is no desire for a conflict it must be avoided. It is a fact that most of the critical situation between the two countries have been occasioned by the vitriolic practice of English agencies in spreading poison both in America and Germany."

CLAUDE SIXTEEN UNDER DISCUSSION AT MEETING

Miner's Ask That Umpire Be Abandoned and Executive Boards Settle Dispute

Clause sixteen of the miner's demands which asks for the abolition of the permanent board of arbitration was discussed at the morning's session of the conference of the wage scale committees of the miner's and operators at Philadelphia. The matter was still under discussion when the meeting adjourned at noon.

The miners argued that the present method of arbitration was too cumbersome and that it took too long to secure a verdict, and urged that the umpire be abolished. They ask that the disputes be settled by a joint conference of the executive boards.

The operators replied that such a method as suggested above would bring no results as in case of dispute there would be no person to give a final decision or to fill the place of the umpire if this position would be abandoned.

THREE FOREIGN LABORERS KILLED BY B. AND O. TRAIN

Pittsburgh, March 27. (By United Press)—Three men were instantly killed, another was fatally injured and other suffered cuts and bruises today when a train on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ran into a gang of laborers at a tunnel opening at Glenshaw near here today.

All were foreigners who came here recently from St. Louis. They had been boarding at Butler. The dead: Angele Karapanis, aged 24. Paul Karapanis, aged 19. Dennis Alexopoulos, aged 24.

All of 521 Clark avenue, St. Louis. Peter Staphas, of the same address will probably not recover.

The men had started to work on the tracks following the passage of a New York-Pittsburgh train and a local hit them.

STATE WILL PLANT QUARTER MILLION TREES IN COUNTY

Trees Will Be Planted On Penfield and Clearfield Forests This Spring

Plantations Will Be Made With Trees Four or Five Feet Apart Each Way—Plantations Will Cover from 125 to 150 Acres.

Planting plans approved by Department of Forestry for the State Forests in Clearfield county (contemplates using over a quarter of a million trees this spring. Every tree planted on the State Forests will be supplied by the Department's own nurseries. Most of the trees for Clearfield county will be taken from the nurseries at Clearfield and Penfield.

About 65,000 white pine, 40,000 Scotch pine, 24,000 pitch pine, 40,000 Norway spruce and 5,000 European larch will be planted on the Penfield Forest, in Huston township. 50,000 white pine, 25,000 Scotch pine, and 25,000 pitch pine will be planted on the Clearfield forest, in Pine township. The total number of trees allotted to Clearfield county forests is 274,000. All will be planted on areas which are now producing nothing of value. No planting will be done on the Karthaus forest this year.

Most of the plantations will be made with the trees set four or five feet apart each way. This means that from 2,000 to 2,500 trees will be required per acre, and that Clearfield county's plantations will cover from 125 to 150 acres. This planting is necessary to form a dense shade and ground cover quickly. It also makes the trees grow more rapidly in height, and provides for early returns from thinning the stand.

The allotments of trees for the other counties in which State forests are located are as follows: Cameron, 334,300; Centre, 469,500; Elk, 82,000; Franklin, 100,000; Huntingdon, 73,000; Lycoming, 113,000; Potter, 1,923,900; Somerset, 310,000; Tioga, 477,000; Union, 255,000.

Including Clearfield county's allotment, this makes a total of 5,169,800 trees to be used for reforestation or the state forests this year. In addition to this, from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 trees will be distributed to private individuals who will use them for reforestation.

BOWMAN—BORNHOFF

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Bowman, of East End when Miss Gladys Bornhoff was united in marriage to Rowland Bowman by Rev. B. J. Hummel, pastor of the United Brethren church.

The ceremony was witnessed by only a few relatives of the young couple. Miss Annie Bowman, sister of the groom, acted as maid of honor and Forest Bornhoff, brother of the bride as best man. Kyle Bowman acted as ring bearer.

Following the ceremony a delicious dinner was served at the home of the groom after which the couple left for a short honeymoon.

ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL TO HERMAN LONG OF EAST END

Youth Falls From Top of Moving Train and Loses Both Legs—Dies Soon After

Accident Occurred in N. Y. C. Yards Where He Was Employed—Was Clinging Over Train to Avoid Waiting.

While returning to his home Saturday evening about 6:30 o'clock Herman B. Long, aged 17 years, of Daisy street, fell from the top of a car of a moving train and had both legs cut off and received other injuries which proved fatal. He died at two o'clock Sunday morning in the Clearfield hospital after seven hours of suffering.

Leaving his work at the Round house in the N. Y. C. yards, Long started for his home and in order to reach the street had to climb over a moving train or wait until it had passed. He chose the former way and succeeded in climbing onto the top of a car. In some unknown manner he fell down between two cars and was unable to catch himself with the result that the train cut off both legs.

It is thought that he was about to climb down the ladder at the end of the car when his foot slipped throwing him down under the wheels of the car. Several workmen in the yards saw the accident and immediately summoned a doctor who ordered him taken to the Clearfield hospital where he died at two o'clock Sunday morning.

The deceased is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. David Long and one brother, Everett, and two sisters. A funeral will be held at two o'clock Sunday morning.

PROGRESS REPORTS WILLARD-MORANGO TO CLEARFIELDERS

Bulletin Service Covers Every Round of Championship Event at Madison Square Garden

Direct Connection With United Press Through Western Union Supplies Speedy Returns.

Willard's decisive victory over Frank Moran Saturday night, which establishes the big cowboy as the undisputed champion of the world, was reported in Clearfield in a running account of the Madison Garden attraction by The Progress. Direct connections through the Western Union with United Press headquarters in Pittsburgh enabled this paper to serve its patrons with the incidents of the big battle within a minute of their happening.

The Elk's club, The Fraternity Eagles, Avon theatre, Henley's Billiard room, Davis' Billiard room and the Bingham hotel subscribed for a bulletin service issued by The Progress, and in each of these places large crowds gathered to receive the returns. Quick service featured the bulletins, eleven of which were issued during the ten round fight.

3,000 ADDITIONAL TROOPS PREPARING TO CROSS BORDER

Authorities Declare There is No Reason to Believe Villa is Surrounded

Sniping by Mexicans Being Carried On on the Road Between Casas Grandes and Columbus.

Columbus, New Mexico, March 27.—(By United Press)—Sniping by Mexicans is being carried on on the road between Casas Grandes and this place according to stories told by returning army supply train wagon drivers here today. They said that several of the snipers were killed by the retaliatory fire of the American troops.

Over 3,000 additional United States troops now at the border were preparing to enter Mexico today. Military authorities at the base here reiterated the belief that the Villistas would not be exterminated without a long hard campaign. They said there was no reason to believe that Villa was surrounded by American or a Carranzista troops at present.

Huge quantities of supplies of all kinds have arrived in the last 24 hours. Hundreds of cavalry horses are arriving here to replace the mounts already worn out in only twelve days' campaigning. Arthur Dargue left at sunrise in his aeroplane for Casas Grandes.

ALL POPLAR TREES WILL BE REMOVED THIS SPRING

In Last Five Years 1,500 Poplars Have Been Removed By the Commission.

The shade tree commission of Clearfield in its yearly report states that in the past five years over 1,500 North Carolina Poplars have been removed in the borough and that 1,600 Norway Maples have been planted in their places.

There are still a few poplars in the borough which the commission insists must be removed this spring. They ask the property owners to remove these trees and plant Norway Maples in their stead, thus saving unnecessary cost and expense to the owners.

It is the intention of the commission during the coming spring to complete the work of removing the poplars and of planting new trees and of filing liens for the maples where owners have failed to comply with the notices already served upon them. The commission will also appreciate notice of any injury done to any shade tree or the wire supports in order that the injury may be properly repaired. It will welcome any suggestion which the citizens of the borough make which will tend to make its work more efficient and which will improve the appearance of the streets of the borough.

The commission, Messrs. W. H. Patterson, Leslie Stewart and Dr. S. D. Bailey wishes to thank the property owners of Clearfield for their hearty co-operation and support in carrying on the work of the commission.

SURPRISE PARTIES HELD FOR TWO LOCAL RESIDENTS

A delightful surprise party was given on Friday for Mrs. Will Mitchell at her home on Turnpike avenue. About twelve guests were present and cards were played. Delicious refreshments were served.

About twenty-five of the friends of Rupert Hudson tendered a delightful surprise party for him on Saturday evening at his home on Fourth street the occasion being his birthday. Games and refreshments were enjoyed by all.

THREE ALLIED VESSELS SUNK—NINE LIVES LOST

FIRE WARDENS OF CLEARFIELD ARE ASSEMBLED TODAY

Forest Fire Fighters Hear Address by Chief of Foren and Discuss Local Problems

Forty-one Members of Force Attend Meeting Which is Filled With Interesting Moments.

The forty-one fire wardens of Clearfield county are in conference here today at the call of Chief Fire Warden George W. Wirt, of the department of forestry, who is presiding at the session. This afternoon in the arbitration room of the court house.

This meeting is called in accordance with the provisions of the new forest protection code, passed by the last legislature. Its purposes are to make the wardens better known to each other, that they may be better able to co-operate and for the discussion of questions and topics in connection with fire prevention and control.

Immediately after the convention came to order at one o'clock Andrew McQuown, fire warden of Bell Township, with headquarters at Mahaffey, was elected chairman of the convention, and W. F. Dague, of Clearfield, secretary.

Chief Fire Warden Wirt addressed the convention, and gave the assembled fire fighters much valuable information in connection with their work. He declared that of the 5,000,000 acres of forest annually burned over in Pennsylvania, fully 50 per cent. was unnecessary and preventable waste. He urged the men to greater endeavor in the prevention of fires.

During the afternoon various members of the force discussed problems peculiar to the district, and appealed to the Chief to settle for them many questions relative to their work which have vexed them.

The entire body had dinner today at the Leonard house. The convention closes late this afternoon.

Eight Feet Flood Registered in River and Water Still Rising.

As a result of warm spring and several rains, an eight foot flood is registered in the Susquehanna river and the water still rising. The Clearfield creek is also several feet higher than usual and is flooding its banks in places. If the warm weather and rain continues it is thought that the river will overflow its banks and Clearfield will be visited by one of the largest floods in several years. Old residents about the town do not consider the flood alarming and are inclined to the belief that no damage will result from the high water.

MEETING OF WOMAN'S CLUB

There will be a meeting of the Woman's club on Tuesday afternoon, March 28 at 3 o'clock at the club house. This will be children day and the program will be devoted to a paper on that subject.

Mrs. Albert Bigler will give a paper on "Manners and Objections." Mrs. E. Vandling will read a paper on "What does it mean to be an American."

Matters of importance will be discussed and a full attendance is desired.

SECRETARY OF DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEE DIES

Washington, March 27. (By United Press)—Thomas Pence, secretary of the Democratic National committee, died early today at his home, here, following a lingering illness. The loss of Pence will be a hard blow to the Democratic organization as he had been picked to manage the publicity in the presidential campaign. Pence was one of the best known newspaper men in the country and was very close to the President and cabinet members.

If the first robin really is about, it is to be hoped that he came fortified with warm wraps and a foot warmer.

For Sale: Three places on the Democratic legislative ticket. A splendid opportunity for ambitious "also-rans."

Wanted: A spring poet who will not rhyme "roam" with home; yearn with bourne; and who will prepay freight both ways on rejected manuscript.

Today's great thought: Wonder if a Zeppelin raid on an American ammunition plant would break a single strand of the tie that binds us to Germany?

A PRETTY PROBLEM.

Which is the mother of the chick, the hen that lays the egg or the hen that hatches it? For the first 1,000 correct answers we will give 1,000 sticks of peanut brittle.

THE SUSSEX AFFAIR.

It is gratifying to see in today's press dispatches that this country will break off diplomatic relations with Germany if it is established that a submarine sank the Sussex. Patience, who has established a new record for endurance and somewhat questionable virtue, must finally become exhausted.

RECALIBRATION.

In going over the legislative field, it is found that we were a trifle hasty in concluding that some of the candidates are of the .22 calibre variety. More careful study offers convincing proof that beside some of them .22 calibre looms up like a 42 centimeter gun—a "Big Bertha." Therefore, we reserve the right to recalibrate these gentlemen at a future time.

COURTING WRATH.

Do you ever return to a thing which oppresses you? Has any subject or object influence over you which seductively brings you back to it despite your aversion for it? It is said that a murderer always returns to the scene of his crime, lured by morbidity to receive a recurrence of the mental and physical shock which followed his act. Some men who are drunkards have a profound distaste for alcohol. Women who go into hysterics over highly emotional plays are most eager to see such expositions of the art. Children are forever touching a wet finger tip to a hot stove, and no man, woman or child ever took the painter's word for it that the paint was fresh.

Some such indefinable desire for revulsion possesses us each week when that superlatively offensive organ of treason, "The Fatherland," comes to the desk. Filled from cover with un-American, pro-German contributions to the German campaign of affirmation, its weekly visit, unbidden, is the signal for indulgence in unexpressed wrath against the elasticity of democracy which permits so rotten a sore to continue as an offense against every fibre of Americanism. So, religiously, it is read. And so, periodically, the humble American writer of these lines yearns with greater fervor for the defeat of the cause which gave birth to "The Fatherland" and its contemptible assumption that this nation is a nation of idiots.

Happenings At Hospital At Salonika Described by a Wounded Soldier

Many American Nurses and Surgeons Working in Hospitals at Salonika—Entrance of Civilian Creates Furor.

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPPERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Salonica, Greece, Feb. 21. — (By Mail)—Seventy-five girls from Canada, standing among their hospital tents on a little hill seven miles out from Salonika, looking into the sky. Above them a circling Austrian aeroplane.

The whistle of falling Austrian aeroplane shells; three terrific explosions on the earth nearby; a heavy thud of one shell that didn't explode and that would have killed a tentful of wounded men if it had—this was my first glimpse of No. 4 Canadian hospital. The Austrian killer sailed away.

In the name of God and humanity why did he try to kill nurses and surgeons and sick and dying men? You feel these things more when you see them yourself than when you read about them. In one of those tents, at the time, not a hundred feet from where an Austrian shell fell, a great surgeon from Canada whose name is known and honored among the surgeons of Germany and Austria was toiling with his knife on theitals of a young officer, using all the skill and science that twenty centuries of study have afforded the art of surgery; and one of these Austrian shells might have wiped out that scene, actors and all—the surgeon, the men who were holding the merciful ether cone, the nurses who were standing nearby with the surgeon's tools and the senseless man, himself. Or might it not, with the strange trickery of shells have killed all except the man on the table and left him to come to his senses, with no kindly ether pouring into his lungs and with the vital operation only half done? The possibilities are too terrible to consider. Not a shell hit the great group of hospital tents. But the point is that the Austrian tried to hit them.

You feel strongly, as I have said, about an incident of this sort, especially if you are marked to go on the operating table yourself the next day. And, also if you are scheduled to spend a couple of weeks in one of the tents lying helpless until the surgeon's cuttings have begun to heal.

By this time the hospital has become normal; the excitement of the patients has abated under the assurances of the nurses that the aeroplane has gone. You are escorted to a tent by an orderly who, you discover later, first learned his business in Bellevue hospital in New York. A sweet-faced nurse meets you at the door of the tent; she used to be in a hospital in Brooklyn.

"Take any bed you please of these five," she says. "And you must undress and go to bed right away, too." The bed is a cot; the covers are heavy warm blankets.

Everywhere about you are men in uniform, or in bed. They are all British officers. Your entrance, as a civilian, creates something of a furor, for a man in civilian's clothes in these days in Greece, is an oddity worth attention.

A soldier in uniform brings you your tea at five that evening; another soldier brings you a cup of hot malted milk at eight in the evening and at nine a soldier in uniform—one of Canada's most noted surgeons, who has given up his work in the city of Toronto to "do his bit" for the British empire—comes to your outside, looks you over and says, "You mustn't expect any breakfast in the morning, young man, because we'll take you to the operating room at 10 o'clock."

In the morning there are more men in uniform, buying themselves about your cot. One takes off your blankets; two bring in a stretcher; another asks you to get up and lie on it. "Are you from New York?" asks another, who walks beside you as you're carried out of your tent toward the operating tent. You are. So is he. He used to be in the Roosevelt hospital. "Do you know Karl Kitchin, the New York reporter?" he asks. You do. "Funny fellow," says the soldier, walking along beside you, with his chin on a level with the stretcher. "Came to Roosevelt hospital while I was there and wouldn't get any better or any worse; fever kept up one night; he beated me to help him speak away and I did, in a taxi cab. He used to give me the tickets cab fare and I hated to see him leave the place."

By this time you're in the operating tent. There are surgeons craning their necks. The surgeon is dressed like a soldier but he is covered in uniform a white apron as you enter. You get onto the table. A soldier stands at each side of you; each holds one of your hands.

"Cook your little nose and let me hang onto it," says the soldier who used to be at the Roosevelt. "I can tell when you're gone that way." A uniform is only partly hidden by the white apron of the soldier who comes toward you with the ether cone. He stands at your head.

"This will taste nasty for just a minute," he says, reassuringly. Then he claps it down over your face. Two or three big steam boxes, in which instruments are sterilized are hissing. The soldier from Bellevue squeezes your hand reassuringly.

"All right," he says. "Many times I've done this."

"Not when aeroplane bombs might drop on you," you try to say, but you're only mumbling; he can't hear you; you'd like to answer him just to show him you're not nervous; but what's the use of trying to make him understand?

"Are you cold? Wouldn't you like a hot water bag at your feet?" You open your eyes. The cone has come; so have the soldiers. You're back in your brown tent. You see double, or triple. The sweet-faced nurse who is talking to you has four faces; now there are only three. You faint and she has only two; you feel encouraged. Just to see if you can talk you say you will have a hot water bottle.

Somewhere in the world there is a terrible pain; you don't associate this pain with yourself. Somewhere some poor devil is suffering with a terrible hurt. Gradually the pain begins to be connected with yourself; slowly it comes to you that the poor devil is yourself. Well, it's lucky for the rest of them it's none of them. Still, YOUR appendix will never ache again.

"Too breezy for German aeroplane this afternoon," you hear an officer on a nearby cot remark.

And that remark brings you clear back to the world; back to the loudly flapping tent; back to the war; back to the killing and the dying.

"COCK ROBBIN" MAY COME TO LIFE IN CONGRESS TUESDAY

Susan Anthony Suffrage Amendment May Be Referred To Whole Committee

Sub-Committee Decides Not to Refer Resolution to Committee But Suffragists Secure Promise of Congressmen to Again Bring it up.

Washington, March 25. (By United Press)—So far as Mother Goose relates, the original Cock Robin staged no come-back. Once dead, he remained devoutly in that condition. Moreover, his women friends made no effort to bring him back; nor did they pester the official graveyard custodians.

But the world has moved since Mother Goose lived, and the Cock Robin under present discussion though officially dead, is raising a considerable post-mortem hubbub and may be brought at life with a bang in congress next Tuesday.

The present Cock Robin is the once-called Susan B. Anthony suffrage amendment, rechristened Cock Robin by Representative Carlin of Virginia. The graveyard attendants, tried and true if nervous are the members of the house judiciary committee; and the pestiferous would-be revivers are the battling suffragists.

The trouble all started when Carlin walked out of a sub-committee, which was to have reported the resolution to the whole committee and announced "Well, we've killed Cock Robin."

He meant the sub-committee had determined not to report the measure to the full committee, where one of those dog-gone-dog-and-no-votes would have to be taken.

However, here enter the lady revivers, the suffs. They found that the resolution had been referred to the sub-committee while four of their friends in the committee were away, and they began a campaign for votes to bring that measure back before the whole committee and a record roll-call.

They found a deplorable amount of ill-health, previous engagements, soldier, walking along beside you, with his chin on a level with the stretcher. "Came to Roosevelt hospital while I was there and wouldn't get any better or any worse; fever kept up one night; he beated me to help him speak away and I did, in a taxi cab. He used to give me the tickets cab fare and I hated to see him leave the place."

By this time you're in the operating tent. There are surgeons craning their necks. The surgeon is dressed like

"Good morning," says the soldier, smiling a good-looking young woman. "How are you this morning?" "Never better," says the soldier. "Not sick at all?" "Do I look it?"

Don't Be Satisfied With "Just Coffee"— Drink Golden Sun

You consider satisfaction before price in buying coffee. Buy Golden Sun Coffee and you get satisfaction at a medium price.

We don't claim that Golden Sun is the only good coffee. But it's a fact that nine families in ten who try it prefer it.

If you are thoroughly satisfied with the coffee you now use, and you feel that no other would suit you so well, stick to it.

But if you are like most families, changing coffee frequently in a search for the one that will give you perfect satisfaction, try Golden Sun Coffee once.

"Your family in good health?"

"Yes, yes indeed."

"You don't expect to be called out of the city?"

"No."

"Well, I'm so glad to know this. There can't be a single reason then, can there, why you should not be able to vote tomorrow to bring Cock Robin before the whole committee?" (Business of drawing out a note-book and pencil).

"No, and I ain't scared to stay and vote, neither," answer some.

"Whew," say others, after their secretaries have rescued them from painfully obvious stalling, and the Lady Friend has left.

So far, H. H. Moss, of Virginia, has been called from a sick bed to vote; life for Dale of New York has been just one official business; out-of-town after another and Graham of New York has developed a memory.

At eventide he promised the ladies he was for at least one more lease of life for Cock Robin; but when morning dawned he remembered an agreement, made previously with other members, not to force fellow congressmen to vote either on prohibition or suffrage this season. Sorry, but in a matter of honor what can a man do?

Williams, of Illinois remembered for a while that it would be decidedly embarrassing for certain other members if they had to vote yes or no. The suffragists finally brought him around.

So there lies Cock Robin; perhaps dead; perhaps simply in suspended animation and with the pulmotor squall manning the oxygen pumps; the graveyard attendants murmuring something about ghoulies; and the resourcefulness of congressional minds being taxed to the limit. Next Tuesday will tell Cock Robin's tale.

EXPERTS FORECAST WORST SLAUGHTER OF WAR IN SPRING

Loss of Life at Verdun Is Greatest Of History, Ancient Medieval or Modern

Monthly Addition to German Aerial Fleet Must Forecast Unexampled
Air Raiding Everywhere—Zeppelin Will Take Every Toll of Civilian Population.

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, March 15. (By Mail)—Men who have been in closest touch with every move of the world war to date are beginning to forecast that the next five months will bring an unparalleled burst of battle, attended by the worst bloodshed in the world's history.

The immense waste of human life and materials before Verdun, greater than that which shocked the world at Liege and Namur, has demonstrated, the experts say, that if this war goes on to the bitter end, no phase of history, ancient, medieval or modern, will compare with the slaughter. One military critic said today:

"The almost impregnable character of the defenses on the Western front, which have been building for eighteen months, make it suicide for the first line of any assaulting body of troops. When a commander orders a battalion to the assault and posts the reserves in the rear ready to follow, he knows that the position attacked will be captured by the reserves, if captured at all.

"He cannot help but know in advance that the first line will melt away before the fire of the opposing side. Before the reserves reach their objective over the bodies of their comrades, they too, may have been decimated by the machine gun, rifle and cannon fire which protects the trenches on every mile of the front that runs from the North Sea to Switzerland.

"No one can blame the commanders for the course they are bound to take. It is war. The men, too, are not unwilling to make the sacrifice. Those in the front ranks know that their chance is slim. The best they can ask for is a wound from which they will ultimately recover. Months of monotonous trench warfare are responsible for this. The men are willing and ready for anything that means a diversion from the stalemate of the past year and a half.

"What will happen on the western front will be repeated on the eastern, where both the Russians and Germans have been working feverishly for months entrenching, fortifying, constructing wire entanglements and placing heavy ordinance pieces sufficient to sweep the ground for miles around."

At Salonica, where the allies hurriedly dig themselves in, and have gradually fortified their holdings, to almost impenetrability, the cost of taking the Greek port for the Central powers would far exceed its military worth.

Throughout all the theaters, the coming spring will see the greatest activity of the war, attended by the slaughter which conditions make inevitable, the military experts are saying.

Not will the slaughter be limited to soldiers, some forecasters declare. It is believed in some circles that Zeppelins will take heavy toll of civilian populations in many quarters.

Reports from Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance, say that the Zeppelin factory there is turning out twelve or sixteen Zeppelins a month. The German Patrol and Shelling-range factories, located elsewhere also are reported active to an extent not times their normal output.

This great monthly addition to the German aerial fleet, the experts are inclined to think, must forecast himself unexampled air raiding everywhere. The question of the air defense of London is being debated in Parliament and with the appointment of Lord Derby as air minister, the public is beginning to have confidence in the ability of the aerial defenders to deal with the Zeppelins in mass.

Steps in the right direction have been taken in many places.

The renewed activity of the German submarines, it is estimated, means a toll of non-combatants, probably exceeding previous losses, and there is some confidence that the navy will meet that problem.

The greatest naval mine is now being confined to the various armies in the field.

HOT WATER THE BEST LIVER AND BOWEL MEDICINE

Says Glass of Hot Water Before
Breakfast Washes Poisons
From System

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, carrying ill health while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, refreshing and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminating organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste, or have a dull aching head, sallow complexion and stomach troubles who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who consume it each morning are assured of permanent results, both in regard to health and appearance.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair, to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after an other application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

REALTY DEALERS AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, La., March 25.—The annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges, which assembled in this city today, has attracted a large gathering of property owners and agents from every section of the country. In point of attendance and the importance of the subjects slated for consideration the convention promises to be the most notable of its kind ever held in the United States. Today was given to the reception of the visiting delegates and the preliminary work of organization. The regular sessions will begin tomorrow morning and continue until Friday. City planning and community development will be among the subjects of general public interest that will receive the attention of the convention.

LAST PENNSYLVANIA HANGING

Philadelphia, Pa., March 25.—
What in all probability will be the last hanging in Pennsylvania will take place this week at the Eastern Penitentiary in this city. The conspicuous victim of the noose is James Pellay, convicted of the murder of his wife in Philadelphia. His crime was committed prior to the enactment of the electrocution act. The lawyer or patrons recently refused to recommend commutation of his sentence and Governor Pennypacker has issued a warrant for his execution.

TO URGE DEFENSE ACTION.

Washington, D. C., March 27.— Constructive suggestions for national defense, and particularly for naval preparedness, are to furnish the keynote of the eleventh annual convention of the Navy League of the United States, which assembled at the New Willard Hotel today for a three-day session. One of the first objects of the convention will be to expedite national defense legislation. Representative men from every section of the country are in attendance, so that the gathering is calculated to impress upon Congress the fact that the whole country is overwhelmingly for sufficient preparedness. Among the subjects scheduled for discussion by the convention are: Development of a large volunteer naval reserve; personnel of the navy; work of the general staff; advantages of the bonus system, and standardization of the motorboats for third line naval defense.

FINNS MAY JOIN GERMANY IN WAR AGAINST RUSSIA

Forecasting Serious Internal Situation, Military Eligibles Forbidden to Leave

Finland Solid Unit Against Participation in War But May Make Attempt to Gain Independence.

(By United Press) Copenhagen, March 8. —(By Mail) —Possibly forecasting a serious internal situation in Finland, all military eligible have been forbidden to leave the country, it became known here today.

Finns between the ages of 19 and 41 must remain in Finland pending the czar's decision to draft them into the Russian army. There are, approximately 500,000 men in Finland available for military service. Less than 4,000 Finns have joined the Russian army to date. All ports of exit are now closely watched with the utmost vigilance by the Russian authorities.

"Finland has no desire to fight for or against Russia," said a wealthy Finnish ship-owner who arrived here today after escaping from his own country by signing up as master of one of his own ships.

"Finland, figuratively speaking, is between the Devil and Deep Blue Sea." The people are a solid unit with the national Diet against military participation in the war. By the people I mean everybody, men and women. Women have the vote, too, in Finland.

"There is not one of either sex who would not fight a German invasion of Finland. But the country wants to do it with its own army and its own officers. The Finnish standing army of 300,000 men was abolished by Russia in 1905. Naturally, then, there is no great good feeling toward Russia. Russia has instituted other reforms which have not been popular. But, with all this, there is no sentiment favoring the Germans. The Finns are for Finland first and all the time.

"If the Germans invade Finland, the Russians will devastate Finland just as Poland was razed.

"If the Russians conscript Finnish men into the Russian army there will be serious consequences. I am not willing to say that there will be a revolution but the world will hear from Finland if it happens.

"Practically every factory and almost every blacksmith's forge in Finland is engaged in making munitions for the Russians," the ship-owner added. "The people are willing to do this because they are paid for it but they are not willing to shed blood unless it is in defense of their own country."

Finland is suffering a great shortage of wheat, and food is somewhat higher, but the country has not suffered in comparison with some countries. Russia refuses to pass more than the normal Russian importations of wheat into Finland because it is feared the grain would be sold to the Germans. Before the war Finland imported her wheat from three sources — Russia, Germany and America. With German and American supplies now non-existent, only one third of the normal amount is available.

27 MILLION INVESTED IN SHIP BUILDING BOOM

Sixty Six Ships Contracted for by Great Lake Companies

Cleveland, March 27. —(By United Press)—Cleveland lake ports are experiencing the greatest ship building boom in years. Ship yards and dry-docks are working day and night. Employees, mostly skilled, are scarce, and wages are 10 to 15 per cent. higher than in past years.

"About 27,000,000 is invested in contracts in Great Lakes ship yards for vessels to be delivered within the next two years," said H. C. Estep, editor of a marine trade paper here.

"Sixty six ships have been contracted for by Great Lake companies. Four companies will deliver the bulk of these ships: The American Shipbuilding Co.; Great Lakes Engineering Co.; Toledo Shipbuilding Co., and the Manitowac Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Co.

"A large part of the ships contracted for will be used on salt water. These must not be more than 261 feet over all, so they can pass through the Welland canal.

"Eight great 600 foot bulk cargo boats have been ordered for 1916 delivery and will be used in the iron ore trade." A. G. Smith, general manager of the American Shipbuilding Co., states that all but nine of the 26 ships his firm has promised to deliver within the next two years are destined for salt water trade.

The Toledo Shipbuilding Co., is working on five schooners to be used in the Atlantic coast trade.

NEW YORK FUR SALE OPENS.

New York, March 27. —The second public sale of the year under the auspices of the New York Fur Auction Sales corporation began today and will continue throughout the week. The first sale was held last January and proved a revelation to the trade, not only in the number of buyers present, but in the keen competition. The auctioneers predict that the January prices will at least be maintained at the present sale. Buyers from many cities throughout the country were present at the opening.

APPAM CASE HEARINGS THIS WEEK.

Richmond, Va., March 27. —The libel proceedings instituted by the British owners of the steamship Appam, to recover possession of the vessel are expected to be heard in the Federal court here this week. Counsel for Lieutenant Berg, commander of the German prize crew which brought the Appam into Hampton Roads, have agreed to present a defense at the trial, although they contend that the United States courts have no jurisdiction over the ship.

HUSBAND SUES DETECTIVE HE HIRED TO SHADOW WIFE

Minneapolis, Minn., March 27. —(By United Press)—Arthur Lillgren, who claims he lost a perfectly good wife because he hired a detective to shadow her, on the detective's alleged statement that she needed shadowing, was in court today. He alleges the sleuth gave him false information about his spouse, and that when he accused the wife of the things the sleuth told him about, she left him. Arthur's suit for $25,000 damages against the detective agency is set for trial today.

The exposition will close with a grand ball in which many famous actors and actresses of the photo drama are expected to take part.

MILLIONAIRE ON TRIAL FOR MANN ACT VIOLATION

Chicago, March 27. —(By United Press)—After many delays and postponements, William Rufus Edwards, millionaire St. Paul lumberman, went to trial here today, charged with having violated the Mann act.

Ada M. Cox, a stenographer who once sued Edwards for breach of promise, is the principal witness against him. Edwards had secured several continuances from the federal court; once because of his wife was approaching motherhood, next because of his baby's illness, and finally, early this month, because he himself was suffering from nervous prostration.

Edwards' counsel planned to attack Miss Cox's character, it was said and has arranged for transportation for 25 witnesses from many places to Chicago.

Miss Cox was a stenographer employed in a Chicago coal office. She declared she was transported to St. Paul by Edwards, and that Edwards promised to marry her. She won a $17,000 verdict in her breach of promise case.

OSCEOLA MILES

The funeral of Edward Brown, whose death occurred on Wednesday was held on Saturday morning from the Catholic church and was largely attended. The great number of handsome floral emblems indicated the esteem in which the young man was held by his friends and fellow employees.

The entertainment by the Bucknell Dramatic troupe under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. on Friday evening was greatly enjoyed by the large audience. The program included high grade readings, recitals and concert numbers. We look forward with pleasure to their return and can assure them a hearty welcome.

Mrs. Herbert Gibson gave a reception to the Bucknell troupe teachers of the High school, and the officers of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. P. B. at her home on Friday evening. Miss Lucas, Miss Isenberg, Miss Margaret Charlton and Miss Mary Langford of Houtzdale were present.

The evening was pleasantly spent in social intercourse, the giving of college yells and in partaking of the elegant refreshments served.

A number of the young friends of Miss Angeline Mattern helped her to celebrate her birthday at the home of her parents at Meadow Brook farm on Saturday night. They report having had a delightful time and wish her many returned of the day.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Tuesday evening.

In this world a man is only worth
